RAMBLING THROUGH WESTCHESTER

By WILLIAM VOGT
(Nature Editor)

THIS IS THE DANGEROUS MONTH—GUARD AGAINST FOREST FIRES!

Dallas Lore Sharp has, in one of his books, fascinating suggestions as to what should be done in each of the four seasons. He does not include only things to see—but things to taste, as well, and things to smell, and things to hear. But we quarrel with him that he has—except in Winter—omitted things to read. And the Fall, with its pageantry, is no more the Fall without Bliss Carman's "Vagabond Song," than Christmas Eve is Christmas Eve without Marley and the ghost. For our readers who have not a copy in their own libraries, we reproduce Carman's poem here.

There is something in the Autumn that is native to my blood—
Touch of manner, hint of mood
And my heart is like a rhyme,
With the yellow and the purple and the crimson keeping time.

The scarlet of the maples can shake me like a cry
Of bugles going by.
And my lonely spirit thrills
To see the frosty asters like a smoke upon the hills.

There is something in October sets the gypsy blood astir;
We must rise and follow her
When from every hill of flame
She calls and calls each vagabond by name.

From The Fire Tower

What to do in Westchester this Autumn? There are so many things that far more time than most of us have should be given over to them. And certainly none of them should be undertaken without field glasses to make each of our trips six or eight times as long! The man who lets October flow by without visiting the fire tower at Pound Ridge is wasting his Westchester heritage. It is a scene to stir the hands and pulses of painters; in each of us is enough urge to create, for these painted hills to make us one, for an instant, with the man or woman who can catch these vagrant expressions of nature's aspect and put them on canvas. Spitzenberg Mountain, to the west, should be climbed—preferably alone and on a week-day when the sweep that spreads south from the pinnacle may be given the unbroken attention that one owes a symphony.

The change of leaves should not be allowed to pass without a visit to the Bear Mountain Bridge. Pause there for a minute or an hour—and you will probably want to take the complete trip up the river from Yonkers.

Find a spot where the fringed gentian grows—not an easy quest—and thank the wisdom of our conservation commission that it is now protected by law. And, certainly, the Fall should not be allowed to pass without a stop at one of the County's cider mills there to taste, in the juice of Northern Spy or Mackintosh, the very distillation of the gold and scarlet, and of the far blue amethyst haze!

Road Projects Are Approved By Supervisors

Peekskill Route Causes Court Action by Property Owners

WHITE PLAINS, Oct. 3. — Approval of new plans for the improvement of North Avenue in New Rochelle, from Pershing Square to Eastchester Road, was given here by the Budget Committee of the Board of Supervisors late yesterday afternoon.

The committee had approved other plans previously and the new action was taken because of the recent agreement with the Trolley Company to substitute busses for trolley cars, allowing the removal of the trolley tracks and paving in that space.

The same action was taken with regard to plans for East Lincoln Avenue in Mount Vernon from Columbus Avenue to North Pelham and on Fourth Street through North Pelham.

County Engineer MacDonald also announced that he had today awarded the contract for the repaving of Fifth Avenue in Mount Vernon from Sanford Boulevard to First Street. The award was made after the Mount Vernon Common Council had finally decided upon concrete as the type of paving instead of amesite.

Mr. MacDonald also announced an agreement with regard to the type of paving for the Dunwoodie Avenue grade crossing elimination project on Yonkers Avenue in Yonkers. The original plans had called for granite block, from which order of the Public Service Commission the railroad had appealed.

At a conference of Yonkers officials and railroad engineers, said Mr. MacDonald, it was agreed to use reinforced concrete the full width of the structure, 50 feet, and on the approaches. The county and city will share the excess cost, $6,000, over the type of paving the law would require, namely the equivalent of the 20-foot macadam now at that point.

An extra appropriation of $9,500 for the County Forestry Department to allow the removal of additional trees on new right of way lines was also made to the county engineer by the budget committee.

New plans were also approved for the widening of Ridge Street in the Town of Rye near the Port Chester line from Westchester Avenue to the Rye village line, to serve as a part of the parallel route to the Boston Post Road. The present 16-foot width will be increased to 40 feet of new concrete for a distance of about .8 of a mile, at an estimated cost of $116,000. The State will pay $61,750, the County $33,250, and the Town of Rye $21,000 for curbing and drainage. There will be curbing on both sides of the new road for the entire distance to be improved.

Final estimate of the new link connecting the Bronx River Parkway and the East Drive at Kensico Dam was reported by the county engineer at $68,956 and is expected to allow the acceptance of work by the Supervisors on ... day.

Announcement was also ... that a new diagonal route had ... selected for the new alignment ... the Albany Post Road in Peek... at South Street and Welcher ... nue. The old plans called for ... quisition of a gasoline station w... cost was found exorbitant an... new route back of the station ... lected. Property owners are ... before the Supreme Court end... oring to have this new route sto... by injunctive processes but ... legal action will not preclude ... Supervisors on Monday from ... proving the new plans. No ... will be asked, however, until ... the court matter is settled.
